

20/04/2009 Choir Notices

Rehearsal 4 of 13

Saw the first bluebells of the season this week – enough to lift anyone’s spirits!

Open Rehearsal

Unfortunately we weren’t successful in attracting any new blood. We’ll all have to try harder next time (September).

Cheques for £50 payable to Tyndale Choral Society...

Quite a few of you have yet to cough up your subs. Please make life easy for our technically non-existent Treasurer, and hand in your cheques this week either to Lorna or your secretary, who also has a paying-in book.

Membership Survey

58 out of a possible 80-85 have responded, for which we thank you. If the remaining 20-odd (roughly 30%) would still like to have their say, then please do so quickly. With what has been received to date, the committee has a good idea of which way the wind is blowing, but it would be preferable/even better if everyone took the trouble to participate.

Section Representatives

Since the AGM, you should now all know who your section representative is. If you have a query about any matter, and you can’t answer it by checking the newsletter or noticeboard, please address your questions to your rep in the first instance. If you have any concerns which you wish to bring to the attention of the committee, let your rep know. You are of course quite welcome to chat to any committee members, but your rep should have an idea of your concerns, too.

And finally...

Were your ears burning?

Last Thursday evening, Thornbury CS had the first night of their ABC, with most of the 43 who had signed up in attendance. Sue Joyce, their Chairman, rang me to say what a great evening it was, and to thank Tyndale for “setting them off down this road”. Sue said there was a great atmosphere and hubbub of excited chatter, and that she enjoyed it immensely. They have (very sensibly) taken our template, even down to the detail of using name badges, although their tutor will have her own approach. So, if you supported the ABC last year in any way, take a pat on the back. I’m going along in a few weeks’ time to be a fly on the wall. Can’t resist.